Some possible ways of understanding

- Whatever most people say is correct.
- The youngest person is correct.
- The most attractive person is correct.
- The oldest person is correct.
- The best-dressed person is correct.
- The tallest person is correct.
- The most attractive person is correct.
- The person who most assures my security, or who least threatens my security, is correct.
- The person who speaks loudest is correct.
- The idea most supported by evidence, and least dependent on unsupported assumptions, is most likely to be correct.
- The idea most supported by evidence, and least dependent on unsupported assumptions, is correct.
- The person wearing a uniform is correct.
- The person who speaks loudest is correct.

Through the course of human history, people have had different ways of understanding things. One of these different ways of understanding is to recognize that there are these different ways of understanding, and then to decide which way of under-